Small Business Program Gets Praise, Blasts

Truman's Proposals Geared To Aid Little Businessmen

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The new five-point program submitted by President Truman to aid small businessmen drew high praise today from Senate Democrats—and sharp criticism from Senator Wherry (R-Neb.).

The program, sent to Congress in a special message late yesterday, calls for government insurance of loans to small business and for creation of investment companies to make long term loans.

It got a cool reception in New York banking circles. There was no immediate comment from small business groups.

Senators Lucas (D-Ill.), Maybank (D-SC), and Sparkman (D-Ala.), who were informed in advance of the President's proposals, called them sound and constructive.

They said they would push for action at this session of Congress. Maybank, chairman of the banking committee, promised to start hearings on the proposals not later than June 1.

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.), a member of the new special Senate small business committee, said Mr. Truman's program "charts a course of action that has long been needed and that will offer hope and incentive to the American economy."

But Wherry, the Senate Republican leader, said small businessmen want less government spending, lower taxes and less interference by government in their business.

"Mr. Truman's five point program for putting the government in business shows that the President is still as far from understanding the problems of small business as he was last year in asking a return to price controls," Wherry said in a statement.

Mr. Truman's message reflected the Administration's growing concern over the unemployment problem. It proposed:

1. Legislation to provide self-sustaining insurance for bank loans up to $25,000, repayable within five years.

2. Authorization for the federal government to create and charter national investment companies, "to provide equity capital and long term loans for efficiently-managed businesses unable to finance themselves on reasonable terms through the organized securities market."

3. Broadening of Reconstruction Finance Corp. lending powers by permitting the agency to (a) relax its collateral requirements, and (b) extend the maximum maturity of loans from 10 years allowed at present to at least 15 years.

4. Placing the RFC under supervision of the Secretary of Commerce. Mr. Truman said he would send up a reorganization plan to accomplish this.

5. Authorize the Secretary of Commerce to (a) establish a clearing house to gather and disseminate scientific, engineering and managerial information, and (b) undertake research on technical problems of interest to small business.

The President also repeated a previous recommendation that the authority of the Federal Reserve banks to make industrial loans to business be ended. He said it has been largely inactive and the move would result in returning $139,000,000 to the treasury.

Barn Fire Extinguished Behind Nurses Home

The fire department extinguished a fire in a barn owned by Dean Cranmer behind the nurse's home on E. State st. at 12:52 p. m. Friday. It was necessary to lay 900 feet of hose to reach the barn. Little damage resulted.

The fire was ignited when a spark from a trash fire blew into the barn.

Huge Crowd Expected At Taylor-Hilton Wedding Today

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 6—(AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Conrad (Nick) Hilton, Jr., head to the altar late this afternoon and hence to a reception featuring carved-ice statues of doves kissing and a horn of plenty spilling fruit.

There's also gustatorial trimmings—crablegs, chilled white chicken, smoked turkey and oysters—and champagne. Then the beautiful 18-year-old film star and her 23-year-old hotel-heir bridegroom leave on a honeymoon that will include three months in Europe.

About 20 M-G-M and Beverly Hills policemen were assigned to handle the thousands of fans expected to gather outside the Catholic Church of the Good Shepherd. Rope barriers were ready to be erected if needed to hold them in check.

The candle-lit ceremony, the movie capital's wedding of the year, was set for 5:30 p. m. (7:30 p. m. eastern standard time).

A re-check of seating accommodations at the wedding rehearsal Thursday night indicated that it will be possible to squeeze in all 700 invited guests.

About 200 persons are invited to the reception following at the Bel-Air Country Club. It is a modern Spanish building with big windows.

The hotel scion and the movie star will exchange wedding rings before Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Concannon. The Catholic ceremony will be performed outside the altar railing. There will be no nuptial mass. Hilton is a Catholic, but not Miss Taylor.

Maid of honor will be Ann Westmore, daughter of make-up man Wally Westmore. Barron Hilton, youngest brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. Singer Jane Powell, a bridesmaid, is the only movie celebrity in the wedding party.

Young Hilton signed yesterday for a job as vice-president in charge of public relations of the Bel-Air Hotel. That is where the couple will live after their honeymoon. The hotel is not one of the 13 owned by his father.

Sec. Acheson Off To Europe For Conference

Expect West To Lay Defense Pattern To Counteract Russia

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson leaves for Europe today to join in diplomatic conferences which he confidently expects will tighten Western defenses in the cold war with Russia.

The meetings in Paris and London are being held in the shadow of a prediction by the U. S. State and Defense departments that by 1954 Russia will be in a position to overpower the United States alone — both in atomic weapons and conventional arms. Against this background, informed officials here forecast decisions to:

(A) Expand the work of the North Atlantic treaty council, (B) provide for closer cooperation among the United States, Britain and France and (C) study steps toward ending the occupation of Germany.

The groundwork for these decisions has been laid in conferences already under way in London, it was learned.

Acheson was scheduled to take off by plane from Washington about 1 p. m. and reach Paris tomorrow morning for initial talks with French Foreign Minister Schuman. He will fly to London Tuesday for meetings with British Foreign Minister Bevin; Schuman will show up in London later in the week.

Officials here said the three will review their policies throughout the world—particularly those involving efforts to stop Communism in the Far East, relations between the West and Russia, and the problem of the future of Germany.

They are expected also to come to working agreements on actions they will advocate in the 12-nation North Atlantic council meetings to be held in London the following week.

Associates said Acheson leaves here with a strong conviction that the West still has the power of eventual cold war victory in its hands.

They said he is confident the North American and Western European governments will make the initial decisions necessary to close their ranks, politically and economically, and to throw more of their resources into a proposed new armaments program under the Atlantic pact.

German Girl Tries To Get U. S. Secrets

NUERNBERG, Germany, May 6—(AP)—Authorities told today how a pretty German girl attempted to obtain American military secrets to sell to the Russians.

The girl, Wanda Dollner, 22, was sentenced this week to 18 months in jail by an American district court at Ansbach on an espionage charge.

She was trapped by an American air force sergeant from whom she tried to obtain a map of the U. S. Army training ground at Grafenwoehr.

American military officials said they were convinced the girl was not employed by the Russians but hoped to "make a few hundred deutschmarks for herself" by selling secrets to them. They said the girl approached the Air Force sergeant and offered him 400 deutschmarks (about $100) if he would give her a map of the training grounds.

The sergeant made her believe he would comply, but tipped off authorities. She was trapped as he gave her two forged maps. Officials said she first claimed that she was working for a Russian captain. Later she admitted that the idea was her own and that she intended to take the maps to the Soviet zone in hopes of interesting the Russians in them.

EXECUTIVE DIES COLUMBUS, May 6—(AP)—A four-month illness was fatal yesterday to T. Carl Smith, 56, for 30 years general sales manager of the Columbus Blank Book Manufacturing Co. He also was a member of the firm's board of directors. He was a native of Circleville.

SALEM DRIVER FINED Neil Weingart, 20, of R. D. 4, Salem, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Harry Vincent, on a charge of reckless operation. He was arrested at 11:25 p. m. Friday on Franklin st.

Foreign Aid Program Cut By Quarter Billion

TWISTER RIPS KANSAS TOWN—Wreckage of a housing development near Great Bend, Kas., lies strewn over the ground after a powerful tornado swept through, causing extensive damage. The twister was one of a number of isolated storm patches which dotted the mid-west as a result of a warm air mass from the south colliding with a cool front from Canada.

Slayer May Try Detector Test

'Last Resort' Court To Make Decision

COLUMBUS, May 6—(AP)—The unofficial "Court of Last Resort" will decide today whether a condemned slayer will take a lie detector test in an effort to save himself from Ohio's electric chair.

The test for Theodore Roosevelt McClure, 23, was authorized yesterday by the State Welfare Department. But it was stipulated the Cuyahoga county prosecutor, parole officer and other officials would have to be present.

Members of the "court," an unofficial group sponsored by Argosy Magazine balked at the stipulation. Said Tom Smith, former warden of the Walla Walla, Wash., state prison and now an employee of the "court":

"Some of us don't feel the conditions laid down for the test (the presence of law enforcement officials) provide an ideal opportunity for such an examination."

"But we may go ahead with the test anyway. We must bear in mind that the time for the execution is near and no stone must be placed in the condemned man's path to establish his innocence—if he is innocent."

McClure was convicted in the robbery-slitting of Nicola Salupo in a Cleveland grocery store on Jan. 25, 1947. After the intersection of the court, Gov. Frank J. Lausche last March 10 granted McClure a 60-day reprieve just 50 minutes before he was scheduled to die in the chair.

Smith said early today: "We will go to the penitentiary this morning and discuss the test with prison officials. We may go through with it if the conditions surrounding it are not intolerant. We will just have to see after we get there."

McClure is eager to submit to the test, Warden Ralph W. Alvis said last night.

Jaycees Paper Drive Will Be Held Sunday

Residents were reminded today to place their bundles of old newspapers or magazines at the curb edge or on their porches for the Junior Chamber of Commerce's scrap paper drive to be conducted tomorrow.

The city-wide canvass will start at 9 a. m. and is expected to take most of the day.

Proceeds from the sale of the scrap paper will help the Jaycees finance their "Operation SPIC" clean-up, paint-up, fix-up program.

OHIOANS OPPOSE POINT 4

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—Senators Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker, Ohio Republicans, voted "No" yesterday when the Senate approved, 37 to 36, to start on President Truman's "Point Four" program of global aid to underdeveloped areas with a $45,000,000 authorization.

Hardly Seems Enough $1 For Honesty On $3,000 Cash Loss

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 6—W. K. Hoge is convinced honesty is its own reward. He should know.

The curb service restaurant operator noticed a purse left in a booth and found it contained $3,000 in cash, travelers' checks and passports. He recalled two men and a woman had dined there a few minutes earlier.

Shortly, the woman returned breathlessly, asked if her purse had been found. She described its contents to Mr. Hoge's satisfaction, he returned it and she walked out. In a few moments one of the men entered and tendered a reward—a dollar bill! Mr. Hoge declined.

The party was from Oroville, Calif., and the passports were for Germany, he said.

Venezuela Forces Split, Refugees Say

MEXICO CITY, May 6—(AP)—Refugees from Venezuela say that country's armed forces are split by unrest against the ruling military Junta and that some 3,000 persons have been arrested.

These reports, from exiled members of the former Accion Democratica party who were ousted by the Junta in 1948, coincided with official reports from Caracas, capital of Venezuela, of an unsuccessful armed attack on the government's air base at Maracay, 125 miles west of the government seat.

The Venezuelan army communique said one attacker was killed and 18 were wounded in an attempt to sabotage planes and flying equipment on the field. Two government men were reported wounded. Reliable sources identified the leader of the attack as a former official in the old Accion Democratica regime.

The communique made no mention of a small U. S. army mission which is maintained at the Maracay base.

The Venezuelan refugees here said those in prison included hundreds of Army officers and men, eight Caracas society women including former members of congress, and newspapermen.

Three lieutenant colonels have been governing Venezuela by decree since they wrested the government from the leftist Accion Democratica regime of President Romulo Gallegos. Gallegos is reported to be in exile in Cuba.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Two cars were damaged in a collision at the intersection of Newgarden and Railroad st. at 7:10 a. m. today, police reported. They were operated by Carl Gartner of 808 E. Sixth st. and Robert Carlisle of Washingtonville. The front ends of both cars were damaged.

6 Persons Hurt In Road Mishaps

Lisbon Man Seriously Injured On Area Road

Six people were injured, one seriously, in four early morning accidents today on nearby highways, state patrolmen said.

James McGoogan, 30, of Lisbon received a fractured skull and lacerations of the skull and face at 8:30 a. m. today at the junction of the Depot road and Route 172.

Patrolmen said George Marchbanks, 32, of R. D. 1, Hanoverton, pulled out on Route 172 in front of McGoogan, failing to observe the stop there. McGoogan went under the large trailer. He was taken to Central Clinic.

Marchbanks was arrested for failure to yield the right of way.

Hurt As Car Overturns

John Newell, 22 of R. D. 1, North Benton was treated at City Hospital for lacerations and bruises of the face, arm and leg after an accident when the car which he was driving went out of control at 5:40 a. m. today on Route 14, 1½ miles north of Salem, careened almost 200 feet over a ditch and overturned. The car was demolished.

2 Hurt In 3-Car Crash

The driver and a passenger received minor injuries in an accident at 8 a. m. today on Route 30, two miles west of Kensington, in which three vehicles were involved.

Patrolmen said Willard Hays, 70, of Rd. D. 2, Kensington attempted to pass a car driven by Millard Schreiner, 21, of R. D. 1, Atwater, and struck a truck driven by Hubert R. Huff, 30, of North Canton. Hays then bounced into the Schreiner car which rolled over.

Schreiner received contusions of the ribs and legs and a passenger in his car, Margaret Chory, 20, of Canton received abrasions of both legs. The Schreiner car was demolished.

Truck, Car Collide

At 4 a. m. today on Route 224, a mile west of Berlin Center the truck driven by Henry Bettia, 38, of Chicago crashed into the car operated by Clark J. Beverlin, Jr., 26, of Akron.

The Beverlin car was parked on the highway without lights, patrolmen said. Beverlin suffered contusions of the left leg, and a passenger in his car, Walter Coughenour, 22, of Akron, received head lacerations.

The right front of the tractor was damaged when it overturned while the driver attempted to miss the car. The car was heavily damaged.

Senate Squeaks Point 4 Through; Cut Still Possible

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—The Administration's big foreign aid authorization was safely through the Senate today, shorn of a quarter of a billion dollars, but otherwise fairly intact.

There were prospects, however, that the $3,122,450,000 figure approved by a whopping 60 to 8 vote last night will be subjected to a determined economy drive when voting starts on a later bill providing the cash.

President Truman's $45,000,000 "Point Four" program of aid to the underdeveloped areas of the world squeaked by on a margin of one vote—37 to 36. And only a 40 to 40 tie—which in the Senate is a losing vote—prevented a $500,000,000 cut in the European Recovery Program, instead of the $250,000,000 slash eventually approved.

The Administration's $3,100,000,000 request for a third year of the Marshall Plan was the only one of several programs in the bill to suffer a cut.

These tight votes—plus a bitter economy speech by Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee—heralded trouble when Congress gets around to supplying the money for the aid programs.

The measure that emerged from the Senate in an extra-hours session merely authorizes the programs and fixes a top limit to be spent on them during the 1951 fiscal year that begins July 1. The actual money must be provided separately in an appropriations bill.

The House previously had voted $20,000,000 less for foreign aid, with the extra cut made in the Point Four program. That and other minor differences will have to be ironed out by a Senate-House conference committee.

Charles Wolfe Dies In East Palestine

Charles H. Wolfe, 79, died of complications at 4:15 a. m. today at his home, 318 Alice st., East Palestine. Ill for three months, he had retired some time ago from his position as Salem Pennsylvania Railroad station agent.

Born in New Castle, Pa., March 23, 1871, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Wolfe. He and Lida Sutherland were married April 25, 1895. She survives.

A Pennsylvania Railroad agent all his life, he had worked at Enon Valley, Pa., Mansfield, Alliance and for many years in Salem.

He had lived in East Palestine for nine years and in this vicinity all his life. A member of the Presbyterian Church, he also belonged to the Maccabees, the Masonic lodge and Odd Fellows, and to the Salem Rotary club.

Funeral service will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the family home in charge of Rev. Byron Fruit, with burial in Glenview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the home Sunday and Monday anytime.

Appeals Court Upholds Ruling In Mine Case

LISBON, May 6—The Seventh District Court of Appeals today confirmed the judgment of the Columbiana County Common Pleas Court in the case of Elsie French of East Palestine vs. the Industrial Commission of Ohio. The case was heard Wednesday.

Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp had directed a verdict in favor of the defendant. Mrs. French had sued in connection with the death of her husband, Harold E., allegedly caused from fumes while he was attempting to effect a rescue of two trapped miners in a mine fire in Unity Township in November, 1938.

The court, in favoring the defendant, ruled the East Palestine fire chief was out of his jurisdiction and without authority in seeking volunteers to go down into the mine and the volunteer workers were not covered by Workmen's Compensation under the city ordinance.

District Church To Be Dedicated

Members Remodel New Garden Edifice

Dr. William B. Robinson of the Steubenville district of the Methodist Church, will give the address at the dedication service at 2 p. m. Sunday in the remodeled New Garden Church.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Elwood Sanor, will furnish a part of the special music.

New Garden Church was organized in 1840 and the present building was erected in 1875. Three years ago, under the guidance of Rev. H. E. Massey, the congregation undertook to build a basement and a vestibule to the church. Rev. Massey was called to another charge, and Rev. G. E. Chalfant has since helped carry out the plans.

The church, which was moved off its foundation while the cellar was excavated, was moved back on the basement, which is equipped with a dining room and kitchen. A new furnace was also installed.

In the sanctuary a new altar platform was added, new floor laid, the walls were newly plastered and papered and the woodwork painted. New shades were placed at the windows and new carpet was laid.

All these additions were made possible by comparatively small donations and volunteer labor.

The Unity Bible Class of the Saem Methodist Church was one of the early contributors. Every person in the community and many in surrounding territory have helped and the church is out of debt. A project is being planned to secure a minister who can devote most of his time to the community.

Paul Guthrie, Wilbert Amos, Franklin Humphrey, Elwood Sanor and Alfred Gamble are the trustees.

The church sponsors a Boy Scout troop, with Don Smith, scoutmaster. This troop has 19 members and plans to send two boys to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge.

Mrs. John Baker is superintendent of the Sunday School, which has an average attendance of 70. Mrs. Lois Amos is the children's superintendent. The Women's Society of Christian Service has 17 members. Mrs. Paul Guthrie is president.

Each school day, the school with Mrs. Rozella Stryfeler cook, serves hot lunches in the church basement to the students. The Junior Farmers and Farnettes 4-H Clubs hold their regular meetings in the basement.

Paul Hays will conduct Rural Life services at this church Sunday, May 14, in the Sunday School session.

Confident Living

By DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Handle Your Disappointments

A FAMOUS neurologist, in treating his patients, has discovered a new kind of prescription. It's described by Grenville Kleiser in his interesting book, "Make Your Life Worth Living." He tells how this doctor writes a few words on a card and instructs the patient to commit them to memory, repeating them until they are indelibly printed on the subconscious mind: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not upon thine own understanding; paths."

Dr. Peale

This is sound advice all of us need. Many of our troubles are caused by what appears to be the frustration and futility of existence. In all the ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy path.

We have desires we never attain. Dreams fade without fulfillment, objectives become elusive. To some, as a result, life becomes a heavy burden, often an intolerable one. Hope disappears; a gnawing disappointment eats at their mental effectiveness.

A well-known physician tells me, "People would be healthier, live longer, do better work if they could simply learn to handle their disappointments skillfully."

I ONCE told my congregation the story of an extraordinarily successful business woman who starts each day by praying and "putting the day in God's hands." She says that by this practice she changes the word "disappointment" to read "His appointment." Therefore she can suffer no real disappointment, for His appointment is the right thing every time. She has found, so she says, that the will of God can never be a disappointment.

Sitting in the congregation that Sunday was a man from out-of-town, charged with a serious responsibility. He was in New York to get financial support for an important undertaking. For days, he had been hammering at the door of a man whose answer was always "No." When he heard me speak about this woman he decided to put the matter in the hands of God and ask Divine help in working out his problem. Several days later, "out of the blue" (This was the way he put it, although you and I know it came from the depths of his consciousness) the name of another man entered his mind. He approached that man and, after some negotiation, succeeded in his mission.

It proved that all the time the door he had been trying to open was not the right door. In an effort to show him the proper direction and lead him to the right man, God had sent him a disappointment. Often God keeps saying, "No! No! No!" to get us finally to the right place. What seems a disappointment is God's message of guidance. Think of disappointment therefore not as defeat but as a guiding finger pointing.

YOU MUST LEARN, too, to walk away from disappointments and to forget them. There is a story about Thomas Carlyle and his "History of the French Revolution." After working for six years on his manuscript, he took the finished work to his friend, John Stuart Mill, and asked him to read it. Mill did so and realized that this was one of the great books of all time. Before he could return the manuscript, a maid threw it into the fire by accident and it was destroyed. Mill had the unpleasant task of telling Carlyle that this stupidity had cost him six years of effort. Carlyle didn't flinch. He calmly told

Rural Life Sunday First Began In 1929

Because Rural Life Sunday falls on May 14, which is also Mother's Day, some of the granges will observe the day on different Sundays in May.

Rural Life Sunday was born back in January, 1929, at a meeting of the Association of Agricultural Missions. At that session a recommendation was adopted requesting the Home Missions Council, the Foreign Missions Conference and the Federal Council of Churches to promote the observance of the fifth Sunday after Easter each year as Rural Life Sunday.

This day is set apart for the purpose of emphasizing the meaning of Christianity for rural life and the consideration of the spiritual values inherent in rural life.

"Rural Life Sunday finds its roots in the Rogation Days, days set apart by the Christian Church for the purpose of offering special prayers to God for His blessings on the fruit of the soil,"

"What Can A Man Believe?"
Sermon by Mr. Ogden
This is a sermon to come to grips with the question: "What Can A Man Believe?" Can a man embrace the new truth at which he arrives? Can a man confess the new principles revealed to him by the experience of his soul? Is all truth, God's truth, no matter where we find it?

NOTIFIED by the pilot of her plane that a "flying saucer" was keeping pace with them over South Bend, Ind., Stewardess Gloria Hinshaw, of Chicago, Ill., informed the 19 passengers to keep a close watch on it. Soaring at an altitude of 2,000 feet, the object was described as a "round mass" which "glowed like hot steel."

Date Bureau, Banquet To Add Gaiety To Junior-Senior Prom

A "Date Bureau" and a post-dance banquet will be additional features of the 1950 Junior-Senior Prom to be held June 2, from 9 to 12:30, at the Masonic Temple ballroom.

Those in charge of the High School event say their aim is "a boy for every girl and a girl for every boy." The bureau has been opened with Jim Tausch, Marge Greene, Cliff Greenisen and Marie Vender operating the student service.

As a new attraction of the annual gala affair, a full buffet supper will be served in typical

Korean Official Pleads For Planes

SEOUL, May 6—(AP)—Communist North Korea has an air force of 195 planes, possibly all Russian built, President Syngman Rhee of the South Korean republic said today.

The president renewed his plea for more American military aid at a news conference, saying "if we could have planes we would feel safer."

"May and June may be a crucial period in the life of our nation," he said without elaboration. "We lack adequate defense."

Good Food Makes Happy Babies

THE infant mortality rate has dropped to the lowest figure in the nation's history. Only 31.1 babies were lost from each 1000 born alive last year, or a total of 111,200 from the second-highest birth record in history, 3,728,000 (estimate). In 1930, that ratio was more than double or 64.6, figured on the same basis. (Total infant mortality in 1930, 142,413).

Today babies rate everything from a Presidential proclamation to official recommendation for extra cuddling. Baby sometimes cries because he wants a little loving, not because he needs changing or food, the experts warn.

Along with the affectionate cuddling, the doctor orders extra foods. A vast new industry has sprung up to provide easily and scientifically the extra foods ordered by the doctors. Food habits developed in the first six months of a child's life influence strongly his health and growth for the rest of his life.

Part of the "good times for babies" story is that parents are told to make mealtimes fun, to set a good example in their own food habits and manners, and to drop nagging in favor of a casual "take it or leave it" attitude.

Interesting foods are part of selling the meal, for even infants respond to color, uniform texture and small servings in bright bowls and mugs. Deep yellow turns out to be a favorite with the high chair crowd, doctors agree, which explains the popularity of strained sweet potatoes, squash, carrots. The sweet flavor helps, too.

High-protein meats are contributing their share to growing very young bodies. Most of the baby food companies have developed their own meat products.

Since baby foods are ready-to-serve, it is logical for them to join forces with other convenience foods such as quick-cooking rice. This "Toddler's Luncheon Special" is a newly developed idea that offers the rice and strained liver or beef, with added tomato juice for extra flavor appeal.

Toddler's Luncheon Special
(Makes 3 to 4 servings)
Two slices bacon, finely cut, 1 can (3½-ounce) junior liver or beef, ½ cup quick-cooking rice, 1 cup tomato juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar.

Pan-broil bacon until crisp. Drain off fat. Add chopped liver or beef, rice, tomato juice, salt and sugar. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes, or until rice is tender.

Wittenberg Studies Anti-Hazing Code

SPRINGFIELD, May 6—(AP)—Wittenberg College has in the making a new code of practice which will ban hazing in any form.

The decision was reached yesterday in day-long conferences between the school's interfraternity council and college officials, including President Clarence D. Stoughton. John Buchholz of Roseville, president of the council, said last night he hopes to have a draft of the new code ready Monday for ratification by college officials and fraternities.

The action followed the death Thursday of Dean Niswonger, 20, a pledge of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, who was killed by a truck during hazing activities.

Parental Supervision Needed For Proper Child Use Of TV

COLUMBUS, May 6—(AP)—Parents should supervise the type of television programs their children view and should limit the hours the children watch them.

Those were the views expressed yesterday by two speakers addressing sessions at Ohio State University's 20th annual Institute for Education by Radio.

Miss Betty Ross, assistant director of public affairs and education for NBC in Chicago, declared:

"Most adults simply stand idly by and criticize children's fare without trying to help the child in choosing his program."

Many of television's so-called "harmful" effects are "simply adult-projected," Miss Ross added.

"The responsibility of parents and educators is to pass on the right kind of attitude about radio and television to the children and welcome these two communications, for they help immeasurably in explaining the world in which we live," she said.

Philip Lewis, Chicago secondary school administrator, said surveys which condemn television as bad for school children are unfair unless they qualify their investigations and results. He quoted findings from continuous video experiments conducted at Chicago's South Shore High school for the last several years:

"A searching examination of the 500 owners of TV (at the school) revealed that while the attainment level dropped for Sophomores and Junior televiewers, it actually increased for the Seniors. This is due to the Senior subjects being susceptible to assistance from television in areas such as U.S. history, civics, literature, drama and related subjects."

Lewis made this estimate of time various scholastic groups may spend viewing television programs:

"Students rating a 'G' (good) average or less scholastically can afford to devote between five and 10 hours per week televiewing without affecting their standings at school. 'E' (excellent) and 'S' (superior) students may devote between 15 and 20 hours without harmful results."

Lewis added: "It was found that the majority of students reporting headaches from watching TV were either defective eye cases or watched the screen for excessive periods of time."

FCC's Jones Wants Wide TV Competition

WASHINGTON, May 6—(AP)—A member of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) today revived a suggestion that more than one color television system be authorized for regular commerce operations.

Commissioner Robert F. Jones indicated that he, for one, favors a competitive situation in the color field, rather than a governmental authority which would result in one company stepping into the valuable rights of patent royalties.

He said this is in line with "Connotations in the Communications Act that FCC is expected to encourage the widest competition in broadcasting."

Jones developed the idea during a lengthy examination of David Sarnoff, Radio Corporation of America board chairman, who completed two days of testimony on FCC's color hearings shortly before midnight last night.

Sarnoff made it clear that he considers RCA's color system to be superior to the rival plans sponsored by Columbia Broadcasting System and Color Television, Inc., of San Francisco, but he asserted:

"We are not opposed to competition. We are not asking for exclusive rights in the color field. We ask that FCC set up basic

At The Theaters

REGINALD GARDINER and Victor Mature call on Betty Grable in the technicolor film, "Wabash Avenue," at the State Theater Sunday through Tuesday.

In the technicolor musical, "Wabash Avenue," at the State Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Betty Grable is a dance hall queen pursued by rival suitors, Victor Mature and Phil Harris, during the great Columbia Exposition of 1893.

Jean Simmons and Donald Houston are in "Blue Lagoon" at the State Wednesday and Thursday. The story centers around two children stranded on a South Sea island paradise after a shipwreck and growing up virtually unaware of outer civilization.

The second film on the double bill is an action-packed tale of an ex-G. I. who buys part interest in a gambling casino and later becomes a leading suspect in a murder case. Scott Brady, John Russell, Peggy Dow and Dorothy Hart star in "Undertow."

The plot of "Ma and Pa Kettle Go to Town" at the State Friday and Saturday deals with Ma winning a trip for herself and Pa to New York and the whole family becoming involved with a bank robber who seeks refuge in the Kettle shack (containing 15 children). Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride play the title roles.

Roddy McDowell portrays a college youth on vacation who discovers intrigue in the shark-fishing business when he joins a double-crossing crew on an expedition in Mexican waters in "Killer Shark" at the Grand Sunday and Monday.

The second hit is "Square

Who Said That?

IN PRESIDENTIAL press conferences, a new custom has been established. Anyone wanting to ask the President a question must identify himself. The purpose of this safeguard is to protect Mr. Truman from "loaded" queries.

It would be a good idea for the next few months to set up similar protection for voters, especially Ohio voters. Vast slush funds are available to intensify the smear campaign which has been waged relentlessly against Senator Taft for the last 10 years. No chance will be missed to misrepresent him to voters.

There is, for example, the McCarthy situation. Senator Taft has been misrepresented as advising the Wisconsin Senator to keep taking potshots in the hope of bringing down some high-flying pinkie by accident. The idea of the misrepresentation, of course, is to make Taft share whatever unpopularity McCarthy may have created for himself by suggesting that where there's one Anger Hiss there might be two.

But Senator Taft, as a matter of fact, hasn't advised McCarthy one way or the other. He wasn't consulted in advance by the Wisconsin Senator, and he hasn't been consulted since. His only statement about the matter has been that the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee should look into the Senator's charges in closed sessions and see if there's anything to them. He deplors the fact the subcommittee's Democrats, playing politics to the hilt, have made a holy show of the charges, in the hope of giving McCarthy a black eye.

Some of the most formidable talent in the character-assassinating business will be arrayed against Senator Taft in his race against Joseph T. Ferguson. The latter will be running with the full support of the C.I.O. and the Democratic headquarters in Washington operated by a graduate of the Pendergast school of ruthless politics in a Kansas City. In fact, Mr. Ferguson will go to Washington within the next few days for his first briefing.

Until next Nov. 8, the day after election, all smears against Senator Taft should be identified as to source.

Mr. Truman Has A Problem

There will be for the next few days, as President Truman begins his tour of speechmaking, a great deal of intensive but necessarily inconclusive speculation about the project's success.

Mr. Truman has a problem in two-party politics. As the head of his party and also as the chief executive of the United States he must determine on what terms he and his party will be able to maintain their political positions.

This is not 1945, when the government in being and the party in power had the advantage of wartime morale. It is not 1946, when a postwar reaction enabled the opposition to gain control of both Houses of Congress. Nor is it 1948 when a reaction from the reaction established Mr. Truman in the Presidency in his own right and gave him a Democratic majority in both Houses of Congress.

Circumstances are different in 1950. Mr. Truman's problem is to find out in what respects the differences are likely to affect political equations. Though the ostensible purpose of his tour is to assert strength, the actual purpose is to overcome what have proved to be weaknesses. There is no secret about this among politicians.

The "Fair Deal" coalition which Mr. Truman heads is supported on four points of political strength. They are the voting power of organized labor, of farmers, of big-city machines bossed by friendly Democrats and the one-party system of the solid southern states. Weakness in any one of the four quarters would jeopardize Democratic chances. Weakness in two of them would be politically fatal. Mr. Truman's job is to try to keep such weaknesses from developing. It is one of the most ticklish tasks undertaken by any President in history.

Some students of politics claim it can't be done. That's what Mr. Truman intends to find out before his party were to lose control of Congress in 1950, two years and election day next November. If its chances of winning both the White House and Congress in 1952 would be slim indeed.

Good Old Stan

BUTTE, MONT.

YOU CAN GO a long way through life and never meet a man whose nose was broken for the first time by Stanley Ketchel.

Naturally, as you bustle along through the world you bump into all kinds of people who have had their noses busted for the second or third time by Ketchel.

And it gets to the point where you aren't sure whether people really had their noses busted by Ketchel or whether they just rammed their schnozzles into a brick wall and claimed that Stan did it to them. A fellow can't believe every bruise he sees.

BUT THE MAN who really,

Be Your Own Note Writer

THE STATE DEPARTMENT notes to the Kremlin over the Baltic incident are little gems of polish and restraint, as have been the Kremlin's notes dealing with the same tragic incident. But the United States might be clearer. Thus:

Dear Joe: We don't believe your story about what happened to our airplane. We think your boys shot it down to see what we would do about it. Obviously, we can't do anything about it, can we? But we can hope. We can hope you will be smart.

We can hope that you will know enough history to understand that monkeying with America doesn't pay. It's like fooling with a buzz saw. You are allowed only one mistake. After that when you count your fingers you don't get 10 any more.

We won't fight over one airplane. Maybe not two. But now that you've got the buzz saw buzzing, chum, your insurance premiums are going to be higher. Either you shut off the saw and get into some safer line of work, or there will be an accident and you will be in it. We will be in it, too, but if that's the way you want it that is the way it will be. We do not intend to be bluffed out, Joe.

Rains Came—But How?

THE scientific rainmakers hired by New York City to produce some extra rain to help fill the city's depleted reservoirs must be pretty unhappy by now.

Countless times their experiments have been postponed—on account of rain. On other occasions, they've seeded the clouds with the necessary chemicals, only to find later that it rained over a wide area anyway. Thus making it impossible to tell what effect their work actually had.

Above all, the scientist dearly loves what he calls the "controlled experiment." The test that is, where other factors are so carefully measured that the effect of a new twist can be gauged beyond doubt.

The New York rainmakers have been engaged in experiments that probably rank with the most uncontrolled tests in history.

In lively Kansas City, an assistant district attorney was running a gambling hell on the side, in flagrant violation of the spirit of the 40-hour week.

"I am 67 years old and I have outlived them all," said George. As a lightweight in his day he fought all the guys around the country that were pushing a punch for a dollar.

"I lose more than I win," said George, and let it go at that. He has a feeling that in his time he did well with his muscle and he still has a ripe old age in which to explore the distant world that live between folk's ears.

But he is still awfully proud of having had his nose broken by Ketchel, and he doesn't mind telling you how it happened. "I really ain't sure now just how many times my nose has been broken," said George.

He was cheating me out of about 80 cents. When I asked him about my bricks he hauled off and broke my nose. Later he felt sorry or something and gave me my bricks back."

LITTLE GEORGE was a lightweight when fame showered him with Ketchel's fists in his face.

"But you know to this day I never been hit as hard as Stan hit me. He's the greatest man in the world."

British Take Odd Attitude In Fuchs Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

THE biggest traitor the world has ever known—which is the way U. S. senators characterize Dr. Klaus Fuchs—has been lodged in a London jail for nearly three months, but the government of the United States, which has been anxious to get comprehensive information about him and his activities in this country, has until now been denied an opportunity to get that information.

For the British government has only just agreed to comply with the American request, forwarded through diplomatic channels, seeking details that are of transcendent importance so as to prevent a recurrence of the treason episode through which secrets of atomic-bomb making were transmitted to the Soviet union agents both in Boston and at Los Alamos, New Mexico.

It is ironical that, with all the headlines about spies and near-spies and all the debate as to whether there are many Communists in government, the one man who gave away the biggest secret of all time gets off with a 14-year sentence and everybody else inside the British and American governments who failed to detect him sooner gets off without even an inquiry or a censure from anywhere.

THE OFFICIAL version of the incident is that the British government "cleared" Dr. Fuchs and about 20 other scientists in 1943 when they came to the United States to work on the so-called Manhattan project, out of which came the atomic bomb. The argument is made that, when a foreign government vouches for one of its officials here on a mission, the United States government accepts that clearance, doesn't even keep him under surveillance subsequently and doesn't do any more checking.

Tragically enough, the fact that Dr. Fuchs was a Communist was known to the home office in the British government for a long time. Nevertheless in 1947 Dr. Fuchs was sent to the United States as the head of a second British group to discuss with American atomic officials such a vital matter as what data should be "declassified" in connection with the atomic-bomb work done during the war.

When Dr. Fuchs came here in 1947, no check-up was made because of the "clearance" given in 1943. Who in the Manhattan project made this ruling? If the persons who failed to check up were officers of the military establishment, was there ever a court of inquiry assembled to determine whether any officer was negligent and to ascertain the facts?

When a battleship gets stuck in the mud or some army officer is guilty of bigamy, there are military trials, but when the most vital secret this nation has ever possessed is transmitted to another country, nobody in the American government—in either the legislative or the executive branch—appears to be interested in getting the facts so that the persons guilty of negligence may be exposed.

NOR HAS there been a satisfactory explanation given as to why the British government has not taken any steps to punish its own officials who gave "clearance" to Dr. Fuchs. Fingerprinting is a modern custom. A newspaperman can't get into a White House press conference without being fingerprinted. So it might well be asked whether fingerprints of Dr. Fuchs were ever taken here or abroad when he was certified for the project so that someone might have become aware earlier of his Communist connections. Surely the known record of Dr. Fuchs on file in the British home office must have included fingerprinting and other data. He was a top scientist in British atomic work.

But when Dr. Fuchs confessed and was sentenced, the British government at first turned down a State Department request for full information. Why was this done, and why did not the American government insist on immediate action? The story is that pressure from Capitol Hill finally influenced the British government to depart from a precedent which holds that foreign governments may not have access to British prisons for their data. Such "precedents" seem like thin excuses in an atomic age.

Senators of both parties have been very much chagrined at the attitude of the British government, and they were pleased to learn today that the request had finally been granted, though it must be conceded that an atmosphere of suspicion exists that the technical reason given in the first instance was not the real barrier and that there are still mysteries between two governments which are supposed to be intimate and friendly where security is concerned.

Backward People

By TRUMAN TWILL

UP UNTIL now, the only backward people we have thought about have been, well, look at it this way . . . everybody knows a few B. P.'s. It takes all kinds of people to make a world. They're nothing to worry about.

But under the tenuous discipline of the new thought in government affairs, every citizen of the United States is supposed to add backward people to his list of worries. Not the backward people he happens to know personally but the ones he never saw—the ones who live abroad. The new thought says they must be uplifted.

We have been thinking about this uplifting and how it is going to be brought about under the master-planning of Washington, and it leaves us feeling uneasy. How can we or anyone else be sure these beepes want to be uplifted or would be any happier if they were uplifted?

Much as Americans might want to share anti-trust suits, strikes, racketeering, high-pressure politics, television, traffic fatalities and their high standard of living with millions of underprivileged humans throughout the world, the program for doing this does not provide for any referendum among those whose way of life is scheduled for extinction.

In short, this whole argument about Point 4, which is the gobbledygook title for the uplift project, is missing the main point, which is the state of mind of human beings now living in what is viewed by the new-thought crowd as a state of depravity. It could be that they are pleased as Punch with the existence they're leading. It could be they don't care about being bathed and equipped with time clocks, factory whistles, easy payments, mortgages, air-conditioning units, brassieres and premium-baited breakfast cereals.

They would be wrong about it, of course, if they felt that way because we Americans count our blessings by the gross, instead of one by one. But the notion lingers in the minds of some of us that under certain circumstances it is possible to be wrong without being guilty of anything. This notion is accompanied, moreover, by the notion that if the idea of uplifting backward people is to make them safe for our side, Point 4 is a poor substitute for a few thousand selfless Christians going forth to win friends with the Bible instead of a bookful of blank checks written against the credit of the U. S. A.

The backward people of America were "converted," with the manufactured trinkets of the colonial period, plus firewater and firearms. That's the point. What did the beepes get out of it? How does it happen that a few hundred years later Lo the Poor Indian is no better off than the moth-eaten buffalos surviving in zoos?

Would it be too much to ask before going too far with international uplift that someone might ask Lo the Poor Indian what he has to say about the fate which awaits backward people when forward-looking people decide it is time to move in and start uplifting. There should be a few places left in the world where ignorance still can be bliss.

Officials Study 'Slots,' Handbooks

WASHINGTON

THERE is no federal law against gambling. The closest thing to it is a federal law forbidding the use of the mails for a lottery or other games of chance.

Many states do have anti-gambling laws. For instance, they have laws against slot machines, betting on the race horses in handbooks, and the numbers racket.

So, the problem of stopping gambling has been a problem for the states and the cities. Now a number of state and city officials have begun to complain that they need federal help in fighting gambling.

They argue the problem has become too big for any state alone to handle. Why? Because, they say, gambling no longer is just strictly a local enterprise. They say it's organized by super-gangs on a nationwide basis, particularly in two big fields:

1. Slot machines. Most of them are made in Chicago and shipped into the various states, across state lines.

2. Sending race horse information across state lines into local gambling joints—the handbooks—by wire and telephone.

IN FEBRUARY the attorney general, J. Howard McGrath, called a national conference here on crime. It was attended by representatives of the National Association of (State) Attorneys General; the American Municipal Association; the U. S. Conference of Mayors; and the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers.

This conference agreed to set up a permanent committee to keep the pressure on gambling. And it asked Congress to pass a couple of laws—on slot machines and horse race betting—to help them out.

The senate acted with surprising promptness on slot machines. It passed a bill making it a federal offense to ship slot machines into a state which has laws against them. The house hasn't begun to act on this yet.

As to betting on race horses: The conference asked Congress to pass a law to break up nationwide "illegal" gambling on the races. "Illegal" is a nice distinction and an important word because you run into this:

Betting on the horses is legal in a state if it's done at a track which operates within that state, under state license, and turns a percentage of the money bet over to the state treasury.

But anywhere else in that state, outside the track, betting on the horses is illegal, whether the betting is on the races run at the licensed track in that state or at a track operating in some other state under license.

This is the so-called "off-the-track" or handbook betting.

A NUMBER of states permit a state-licensed track but forbid any handbook betting outside the track. Yet, it has been estimated there are as many as 150,000 handbooks doing business in this country, in violation of the law.

But how do they get the up-to-the-minute race news which makes it possible for them to do business? By a nationwide system of information sent to them by telegraph or telephone from the tracks.

Of course, the whole problem could be solved by the states if they outlawed all race tracks. This seems unlikely.

Too many people have too much money invested in horseflesh and race tracks to let the tracks be wiped out without a fierce fight. Besides that, a lot of voters like to go to the races. In addition, the states which have licensed tracks make money off them, since they get a percentage of the money bet there.

But it's doubtful that the handbooks could do much business, or any at all, if the up-to-the-minute track information was shut off. That's what the state and city officials said, in asking Congress to pass a law against sending track information into the "illegal" gambling places, the handbooks.

A senate committee has been looking into this problem for weeks, holding hearings, listening to a lot of witnesses, including big gamblers and men who run the race-horse information service.

This committee—a subcommittee of the Senate's Interstate Commerce Committee—hasn't come up with anything that looks like an answer yet. So action by the full senate is still far off.

Two New States

WASHINGTON

IF Hawaii and Alaska are granted statehood, the first and biggest effect in the U. S. will be a tremendous boom in the flag-making business. It'll mean scrapping every American flag and buying new ones with two stars added.

As far as the Alaskans and Hawaiians go, it'll mean higher taxes for them. They will have to start paying for some functions of a state government which are now paid for by Uncle Sam.

But as far as the average U. S. citizen is concerned, those two important territories could join the federal fraternity without anyone noticing it. Hawaiian pineapple and Alaskan salmon would cost just as much. A vacation on Waikiki Beach would be just as elusive to the average pocketbook and a summer's jaunt to the "state" of Alaska would be just as difficult.

Nor would you see a lot of Alaskans or lei-decked Hawaiians suddenly migrating to Kalamazoo. They've been U. S. citizens for many years with the privilege to live or travel any place in America.

The U. S. Senate, however, is the American institution which would be most immediately affected. It would get four new members with full privileges of unlimited debate. And that's where the rub comes in the last step to statehood. Some members feel it would give Alaska and Hawaii more of a voice in American affairs than their population and importance now warrant. That thought may be the biggest stumbling block to final congressional approval of statehood.

The Big House of Representatives, which would only get three new members, one from Alaska and two from Hawaii, has twice voted to give the Pacific Paradise statehood. And recently, for the first time, it voted to give Alaska that privilege. Senate action is all that's needed now.

After Senate approval, constitutional conventions would have to be called in both territories to organize state governments and write constitutions. If the President then approved them, statehood would be automatic.

Alaskans would feel the extra cost of their own state government most. The U. S. Treasury pays about one-quarter of a million dollars a year for Alaska's court system and a half million dollars caring for the insane there. The $20,000,000 a year spent on roads in Alaska would probably continue to be paid by Uncle Sam.

Hawaii's 540,000 citizens would have to shoulder only an additional quarter of a million which the U. S. spends there for some judges' salaries and other minor administrative matters.

In 1894 Hawaii became a republic, patterned after that of the U. S. In 1898 the islands were annexed and in 1900 the present territorial status was fixed. Today it has a population greater than six states and nearly equal to four others.

Alaska's permanent population is estimated to be 70,000 white American citizens from every state and 30,000 Indians and Eskimos. Almost half of the present states came into the union with fewer people than Alaska has.

So They Say

I THINK the principal criticism should be directed against the procedure that has been followed—to make the whole affair a great public drama.

—John Foster Dulles, on McCarthy charges against State Department.

We must get the government in Washington back on legislating for people as a whole and stop class legislation.

—Dr. Ralph Robey, chief economist for NAM.

Elizabeth Stewart Married To Robert Hodge Friday

GOWNED IN WHITE NYLON MARQUISSETTE and attended by a matron of honor and four bridesmaids attired in embossed white organdy, Miss Elizabeth Stewart centered a picturesque altar scene when she was married to Robert Hodge at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the First Christian Church.

Miss Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stewart of Jennings ave. Mr. Hodge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hodge of Washington ave.

An arrangement of white flowers was set in an embankment of palms, which was lighted by the soft glow from white candles in tall seven-branch candelabra.

Emphasizing a green and white decorative theme, large white bows and greenery were attached to the candelabra and also marked the ends of the pews in the center aisle.

Cousin Is Soloist

Stewart Painter of Detroit, cousin of the bride, talented soloist, sang four solos, "I Love Thee," "With This Ring," "Because," and "Always," in the musical prelude. After the couple had received their rings he sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Ruth Berry, church organist, who accompanied him, played these numbers in her recital, "Barcarolle," "To A Wild Rose," "Adoration," "Liebestraume," "Berceuse" and "Through The Years."

As the organist sounded the first note of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, Rev. E. S. Scott, pastor, took his place in front of the altar. He was followed by the groom and his best man, Richard Gottschling.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Gross, sister of the groom; Miss Joyce Lowry, and Mrs. Donald DeJane of Salem and Miss Olivia Opincar of Lisbon led the beautiful bridal procession, followed by the matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Weiss of Kent, sister of the bride.

Small Julia Smith, cousin of the groom, and James Weiss, nephew of the bride, ring bearer, preceded the bride who approached the altar on the arm of her father. Mr. Stewart gave his daughter in marriage as Rev. Scott heard the exchange of vows.

Attire Of Bride

Miss Stewart's exquisite bridal costume was designed with a round neckline, deep sheer yoke with a ruffle of lace forming a bertha collar; long sleeves were pointed at the wrists and the basque waist was attached to a lace trimmed skirt. Lace formed four panels down the back of the court train. Her imported illusion veil was attached to a Juliet cap studded with seed pearls and crystal beads. She wore a strand of pearls, the groom's gift, and for the traditional something old she wore her paternal grandmother's bar pin. Her cascade bouquet of gardenias was tied with wide white ribbon.

The matron of honor's organdy gown was over green taffeta. It was fashioned with a standup shawl collar, basque waist, cap sleeves and full skirt. She wore a long yellow ribbon sash. Her white headdress was trimmed in daisies and she wore mits of the same material as her gown. Her strand of pearls and her pearl earrings were the bride's gift. She carried white daisies tied with yellow satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids' attire was identical to the matron of honor's, except in color. They wore organdy hats and mits to match and their bouquets of daisies were tied with harmonizing satin ribbon. Their strands of pearls were gifts of the bride.

The flower girl was dressed in a dotted Swiss organdy and wore a matching bonnet. She carried a white basket of pink rose petals. The ring bearer carried the rings on a small heart-shaped white satin pillow.

Salem Men Usher

Ushers were Ray Snyder and David Linton of Salem; David Barrow of Lisbon, cousin of the groom, and Jack Weiss of Kent, brother-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Stewart complemented her poude blue crepe dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Hodge was dressed in navy blue, used pink accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Approximately 150 guests from Salem, Freedom, Pa., New Martinsville, W. Va., Detroit, Canton, Lisbon and Paris, Stark County, attended the reception in the church social room.

The refreshment tables were laid with lace. One was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake flanked with tall white tapers, while the other one had a centerpiece of white flowers. Mrs. R. D. Painter, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Louis Binsley, the groom's aunt, poured. Mrs. J. H. Yengling, cousin of the bride, and Miss Jean Stanley of Damascus, assisted in serving. Miss Ruth Zeck was in charge of the guest book.

For going away, the bride wore a navy blue sheer with red accessories and a gardenia corsage. Upon their return, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hodge will reside on Vine ave.

The newlyweds are both graduates of the Salem High School. Both are employed by the Mullins Mfg. Corp.

Barbara Lane Engaged To Edward Bozich

Mrs. Bea Lane of E. Fourth st. and William Lane of Sharon, Pa., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Jean Lane, to Edward Bozich, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blender of Morris ave.

Miss Lane has chosen Saturday, July 1, for her wedding day. The ceremony will be solemnized at 2:30 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Custom of open church will be observed.

The future bride and her fiancé graduated from Salem High school. She is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He is an employee of the National Sanitary Co.

10 At Birthday Party Given Darlene Krepps

Ten children helped Darlene Krepps celebrate her third birthday at a party given by her mother, Mrs. Bruce Krepps, Wednesday afternoon at her home, E. Fifth st. She was presented many pretty gifts.

Balloon favors were given the youngsters. Sweet peas formed the centerpiece on the table from which lunch was served. A decorated birthday cake was featured. Mrs. Robert Brudery and son, David, of Youngstown, were out-of-town guests.

Jolly Bingo Club Guest Of Mrs. Ralph Ritchey

Meeting Friday evening, members of the Jolly Bingo Club were guests of Mrs. Ralph Ritchey at her home, S. Lincoln ave. Game prizes were presented Mrs. Rolan Ritchey, Mrs. Emmor F. Ackelson, Mrs. James Roessler and Mrs. Harry Breitenstein. Mrs. Russell A. Ruff of Alliance was a guest. The May 19 meeting will be at the Ackelson home, Fair ave.

Birth Reports

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fratila of 931 Newgarden st., today, at City Hospital.

Daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward James of Lisbon, Friday, at City Hospital.

With The Patients

Miss Clara Wilkinson of Alliance, who is employed at the Lape Hotel, is in the Central Clinic recovering from surgical treatment.

Grange To Observe 75th Anniversary

Smith Grange has issued an invitation to all neighboring granges and friends to attend the 75th anniversary celebration Wednesday at the grange hall.

Rev. George Van Wingerden, pastor of the First Christian Church in Girard, and a member of Cortland Grange for 17 years, will be the principal speaker at the celebration.

The program will start at 8:30 p. m., with the salute to the flag and a prayer led by Mrs. Clyde Dugan, chaplain. The audience will sing "America the Beautiful" and Mrs. Herman Brunie, secretary, will give the greetings.

Eleanor Early will recount the history of the grange and the grange chorus will present special music. Juvenile grange members will be seen in a tableau, "Getting Ready For Grange." Lucille Oesch is a reader.

Mrs. Clyde Dugan will present a solo to be followed by the introduction of the speaker by Master Ralph Courtner. Rev. Van Wingerden will give the address.

Master Courtney will introduce the honored guests and Edward Stratton will give a reading. Rev. Thomas Holmes will conclude the program with the benediction.

Smith Grange is situated 2 1/2 miles north of Beloit.

Pirates Don't Use Base Hits

Need Only Five For Win Over New York

Hitless wonders of 1950—the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Batting a sick 224, Bill Meyers' Pirates make a habit of winning five-hitters. Only a half game behind the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, the Bucs continue to do it the hard way.

Pre-season dope on the Pirates said "strong in hitting. Weak in pitching." So far it's worked out in the reverse.

They did it again last night, just like Thursday, making five hits count for a 5-4 win over the New York Giants. The big gun—Ralph Kiner—went "3 to 0." Great relief work by Lefty Bill Werle choked a Giant rally in the ninth.

If Pittsburgh wins without hits, Boston certainly makes up for them. The home run happy Braves hammered four more into the seats, thumping Cincinnati, 13-1, behind Warren Spahn. That makes 11 home runs for Boston in the last three games and 19. Tops in the majors for the year.

THEY FINALLY got Dick Sisler out at St. Louis but not before he ran up a string of eight consecutive hits against his old teammates. Sisler was stopped by Harry Brecheen in the ninth inning as the Cards edged the Phillies, 3-2.

Brooklyn pitching fell apart in the ninth inning again and the Dodgers lost to the Chicago Cubs in the tenth, 7-6. Rookie Ransom Jackson's homer off Clarence Podbielan broke up the game after Hank Sauer had sent the game into extra innings with his first three-run homer of the year.

Detroit clung to its one game lead in the American, capitalizing on shoddy Washington support for Steve Nagy to trim the Senators, 9-6. The Tigers scored five unearned runs.

Ted Williams' fifth homer helped the Boston Red Sox whip Chicago, 5-2, to move into second place.

Two games were washed out—Cleveland at New York and St. Louis at Philadelphia, a scheduled night game.

It was the biggest night of the early season with four night games. They drew a total of 72,685 as compared to 13,549 for the day games at Boston and Chicago. Largest crowd was at Pittsburgh, 31,785.

Hogan Fires Second 64 To Lead By Four

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 6—(AP)—Ben Hogan, the little golfer with the big heart, is shooting like the champ of old.

But his painful comeback road comes up to severe physical tests here today and tomorrow.

The 145-pound golfing machine shot his second straight six under par 64 yesterday. That gave him a four-stroke lead over Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., who looked at Hogan's score and murmured "Lawd ah mighty."

There are 18 holes to be played today and 18 more tomorrow. The 6,268-yard course was taking a thorough par beating. Seventeen of the 27 pros and under par for two rounds and two more had regulation 140.

Chandler To Decide Wakefield Problem

CINCINNATI, May 6—(AP)—The puzzling case of baseball outfielder Dick (Who-does-he-be-long-to?) Wakefield may finally be settled some time next week.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said it will be determined about that time whether Wakefield goes to New York's Yankees or Chicago's White Sox. Wakefield went from New York to Chicago several days ago in a money trade. But he said he wouldn't play for the White Sox unless he got back the 25 per cent whack taken from his pay at the beginning of the season.

So Chicago General Manager Frank Lane sent him back to New York. But New York General Manager George Weiss said, "He's yours now—that was the deal."

Wakefield is piddling around at his Ann Arbor, Mich., home while the controversy goes on. Chandler heard both Weiss and Lane out and took the matter under advisement yesterday.

Yesterday, also, the major league executive council decided the petition of the Pacific Coast League to be let out of the draft was something for the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs to take care of.

In another action at the three-day session of major and minor league controlling groups, the minor league executive committee took under advisement a petition by Jack Corbett for dismissal of a $1,000 fine. The owner of the El Paso club of the Arizona-Texas League was handed the fine and suspended by George Trautman, head of the minor leagues. He was accused of using an illegal player, taken from the Mexican League.

Hope To Halt Recent Lawsuits

Several Plans Made To Alter Situation

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., May 6—(AP)—High on the agenda of the American Bowling Congress' annual meeting next week is a thorough airing of the group's "white male" membership restriction.

Harassed on many sides by court suits attacking the rule, and faced by a recent Chicago decision that it is discriminatory, the ABC is certain to take some kind of action as its May 12 session.

But actual facts on what's to occur are as difficult to obtain as 300 scores in the current classic.

Off-the-record remarks by officials who decline to be quoted range all the way from "We'll have to give in if we are to survive," to defiant, "We'll fight it all the way to the Supreme Court. We won't have pressure groups dictate our policies."

Of a host of amendments to come before the meeting, only two deal with the membership angle. Any others must receive a two-thirds vote of the some 300 delegates even to reach the floor for discussion.

One amendment, given the green light, would set up the ABC as a "representative, legislative and executive body, its membership composed of individuals (not teams) affiliated through a chartered city association represented on the parent body by duly elected delegates and alternates."

The other, supplementing the first, would decree "city associations shall be composed of individuals of the white male sex who are interested in the game of American tenpins."

"ONE DIRECTOR said he knew the discrimination angle would be raised from the floor, and that he would favor a ballot to determine whether a two-thirds vote could be mustered for thorough discussion."

"It's time we found out just what the membership wants," he said, "and the meeting is the place for them to have their say."

Other reports, whispered by some ABC officials and denied by others, were that the "top brass" of the organization would lead a move to throw the memberships wide open in an attempt to put an end to the costly and time-consuming lawsuits.

One official who indicated such a plan was being considered to salvage as much of the ABC supervisory structure as possible, said opposition of varying intensity was expected from the rank and file delegates, about 50 of whom are alley operators or employees.

Another rumor was that the ABC, to retain full control of its membership on the present restrictive basis, might erect a permanent home for housing its officers and holding the annual tournament. New alleys would be installed each year, as at present, should the structure be erected. Financing plans would include donations by ABC members throughout the country.

Add Mashie And Putter, And Have Child Hit Down On Ball

By DAVE BAUER

Father and teacher of the famous sisters.

SAY the child is six years old, and has a few months of golf experience in how to swing and hit the ball smoothly.

Now add a mashie, or No. 5 iron, and a putter to the bag.

So far the youngster has had only tee shots.

Now show him how a mashie is used without a tee—first with a low tee, then without a tee.

Stress the importance of hitting down on the ball.

See to it that the ball is placed two inches past the center to the right, so that it is in a correct position to be hit before taking a divot.

Let the child hit and practice

POSITION—Marlene Bauer prepares herself to be in the best position to give the ball all of the power and speed already present from her great full swing.

Questions and Answers

Q—How long did it take the Mormons to cross the wilderness from Illinois to Utah?

A—Brigham Young and his followers left Illinois in 1846. It was two years before the migration was completed, but by 1848 the whole band was settled in Utah, beyond the Rocky Mountains and near Great Salt Lake, where the advanced guard under Brigham Young had founded Salt Lake City on July 24, 1847.

Q—At the time of the first census, in 1790, what was the U. S. population?

A—Very nearly four millions, nearly all within less than three hundred miles of the seacoast.

Q—Where was the first attempt made to get up a republic in the New World?

A—The first republic in the New World was formed by the Eleutherian Adventurers, who made the first attempt at permanent settlement in the Bahamas in 1647.

Heer's Defense Line Rebuffed

Judge Dispels 'Drunk' Approach

COLUMBUS, May 6—(AP)—The question of whether James D. Heer will take the stand in his own defense in his first-degree murder trial next week remained unanswered last night as the court recessed for the week-end.

His attorney, Matthew L. Bigger, declined to disclose his plans for the future defense of the 21-year-old former Ohio State University student charged in the slaying of Jack T. McKeown, 21, of Norwood, O., after a gay fraternity homecoming party last fall.

The defense of the Euclid, O., ex-Marine was jolted yesterday afternoon when Common Pleas Judge John R. King rebuffed Bigger's attempt to use intoxication as a defense.

As a result of the judge's stand, Bigger dropped his demand for appearance of Ohio State trustees, including U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio). He had planned to question them about university rules against drinking.

Bigger is attempting to show as the defense progresses that Heer, a pledge to the Delta Tau Delta fraternity chapter of which McKeown was a member, was too drunk at the time of the shooting to commit premeditated murder.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett objected yesterday when Bigger attempted to question Ohio State's dean of men Joseph A. Park about university rules against drinking. Judge King sustained the objection, saying:

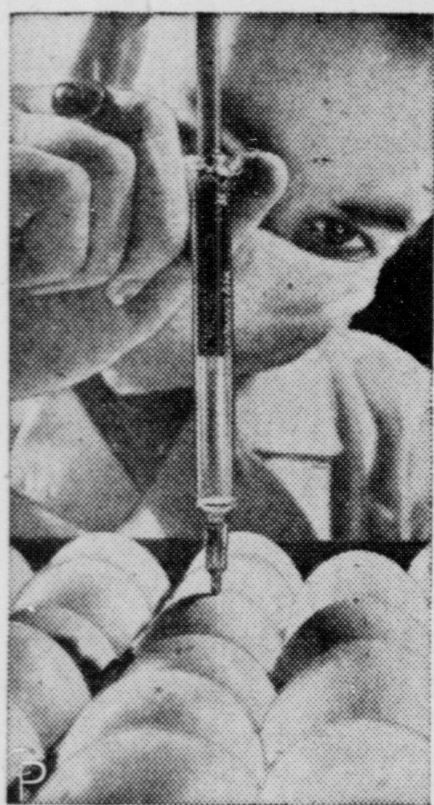

"We are not so much interested in the violation of a rule—the question here is to determine whether or not the defendant committed homicide, as is alleged and charged."

After a brief argument at the bench, the jury was excused.

Then, Bigger said: "If university officials had enforced regulations (on drinking), it would have prevented the tragedy in this court today."

Judge King replied: "I assume these rules and regulations were adopted by the board of trustees, and it was thought these rules against drinking should be enforced."

"But suppose they were not enforced or not observed by the student body.

"Suppose, and I am not assuming that there was laxity on the part of those who enforce them, can that be a defense against homicide or murder?"

"Is mere drunkenness a defense to murder in a first-degree, second-degree or manslaughter?"

"There is a statute which makes it an offense against the law to become intoxicated. Is that defense against murder? Can the board of trustees, can the dean here, be a monitor over each and every student?"

"It would be impossible in a student body of 20,000; not only impossible for them to govern personally each one, but in no way could he constitute a defense for murder because the rules have not been observed."

Bigger met with the same objections and sustaining motions when he put similar questions to Frank Mallett, assistant professor and faculty advisor for the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

5-Day Homecoming Set For Leetonia

LEETONIA, May 6—The annual Homecoming celebration, sponsored by the Community Boosters Club and the Joe Williams Post No. 131, American Legion, will be held from May 30 through June 3. Jack Woods and David Patterson are co-chairmen.

J. Leland Helt, president of the Boosters Club, will have charge of the 1950 beauty contest. Girls interested in entering the contest are asked to furnish two 8x10 pictures to be used in the judging. The photos must be in the hands of the contest chairman not later than May 20.

Tom Little will have charge of the pet parade this year. The first prize will be a wrist watch valued at $50, second prize $10 and third prize $5.

Mr. Little will present the Homecoming Queen with a diamond ring. A trophy also will be presented the queen.

Seven Merchants To Give Displays For "SPIC" Forum

Seven Salem merchants will provide displays for the first of Operation SPIC's three homeowners forums to be held at 8 p. m. Monday when Henry L. Pree, Cleveland landscape architect and garden columnist appears at a Memorial building program. Admission is free.

"Lawns and Landscaping" is the forum theme. The merchants will install the displays and will answer any questions on equipment.

The primary purpose of these forums is to provide specialists to answer any questions residents have in connection with maintaining their homes.

Mr. Pree, who will present colored slides with his talk will conduct a question-and-answer period to help homeowners who have problems such as ground moles in their yards or an unfruitful rock garden.

Dale Wilson is general forum chairman. The forums and Operation SPIC are sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Wednesday's forum will be devoted to solving the problems and queries on painting and decorating. One of two Cleveland paint specialists will be the principal speaker on this program. Other Salem merchants are preparing attractive booths for this subject.

The Friday forum also will feature a Cleveland speaker who will discuss and answer questions in connection with structural repairs and remodeling problems. James Giffin is making arrangements for Monday's forum; Russell Hackett, the paint and decorating meeting; and George Ryser, the final forum of the week, which is geared for use of residents planning home changes.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Members of the Salem Music Study Club will meet at 2 p. m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Raymond Stiver at 1587 E. Third st.

City Church Women's Council Pledges Membership Of 1,000

More than 100 members of the Salem District Council of Church Women pledged themselves to 1,000 local memberships in the National Council of Church Women at the World Fellowship Day program Friday afternoon in the Methodist Church. All denominations are uniting in this effort.

Mrs. T. W. Purviance, a Methodist, was named president, succeeding Mrs. J. C. Pottorf; Mrs. W. W. Brown, of the Christian Church, vice president; Mrs. A. H. Schropp, of Holy Trinity Lutheran, secretary; and Mrs. F. L. Blevins, of the Baptist Church, treasurer.

Dr. Ching Shing Lu, assistant house physician at Salem City Hospital, made her talk on "China As I Knew It" enjoyable as well as instructive.

Dr. Lu, told of the Chinese herb doctors who are being gradually replaced by modern medical science and of the general instability of life in China due to poor and little food, bad housing and communist activities.

Under the topic, "Our Daily Bread," Mrs. Thomas Mercer,

Mrs. James Luke and Mrs. Preston Snyder explained the basic economic problems at home and abroad. The talks in summation conclude, that a hungry people are far more dangerous than an atomic bomb, and that church women should realize their potential power.

An individual voice means little, they explained but with unity such as the council has much can and is being accomplished.

Insecticide and fungicide dusts and sprays now are made to stick to plants by giving each particle of droplet an electrostatic charge. The charges are imparted by shooting the spray or dusting material through a nozzle at a velocity greater than that of sound.
